

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A data communication apparatus comprises a memory for storing plural data, a transmitter for transmitting the plural stored data, a display for displaying situations of the plural stored data, and a controller for performing, in case of displaying the situations, control to change order of display of the data being transmitted. Thus, the data being transmitted can be easily specified from among the plural stored data, the data being transmitted can be easily specified by changing display forms, the data being transmitted can be easily specified by shifting them to the head of a list and displaying this list, and the data being transmitted can be easily specified by automatically scrolling a display area thereof.

FOIA b7 - D